

Princess Margaret's on Her Way to Victoria

LONDON (Reuters) — Princess Margaret leaves today on a visit to Canada that will take her 3,000 miles across seven provinces.

She arrives in Victoria at 10 a.m. Saturday.

only member of the Royal Family who has not yet visited the Dominion.

The Princess' BOAC Britannia aircraft will make one refuelling stop on its flight from London to Vancouver—at Goose Bay, Labrador.

nel in Canada have been instructed to give priority to the flight.

Margaret's last overseas tour was to the West Indies last spring. She also has visited South Africa, East Africa, Malta, Rhodesia, France, West way, Sweden and Switzerland.

The RCAF said in Ottawa that its plush C-5 transport plane would be used for part of Margaret's cross-Canada tour.

The princess will use the lounge in the rear portion of the aircraft. It is equipped with modern facilities, including a private cloakroom and washroom with hot and cold running water.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker yesterday sent a message of welcome to Princess Margaret.

Text of the message:

I should like to let Your Royal Highness know how delighted we are at the thought that you will be with us for the centenary celebrations in the province of British Columbia and that you will also be visiting other parts of Canada.

I am sure I speak for all Canadians everywhere when I say how eagerly we are looking forward to welcoming you and to demonstrating the warmth of our affection.

Bon voyage and best wishes for a happy sojourn in Canada.

'Strike Meetings On'

Black Ball Union May Defy Bennett

VANCOUVER (CP) — One officers' union on the B.C. government-seized Black Ball Ferries indicated Thursday night it may strike the line in defiance of Premier Bennett.

Richard Greaves, secretary of the National Association of Marine Engineers, said strike meetings "are taking place and a date is to be set unless a settlement comes up in the meantime."

"The line was seized by the government under the Civil Defence Act June 20, just before the Marine Engineers and the Merchant Service Guild were to go on a wage strike."

Black Ball was the last remaining major water link between Vancouver Island and the Mainland.

Mr. Greaves said he attempted to reach Premier Bennett Thursday to make "a last, desperate appeal" to have Black Ball returned to normal operation so strike action could proceed. The premier was not available, he said.

"It must have been obvious . . . that the unions struck against Black Ball in order to bring the CPR strike to a head and force the federal government to do something."

The CPR strike now can go on forever, he said.

"Mr. Bennett must have known this, yet he took over Black Ball because he hoped to gain some personal political popularity . . . He seems to be more interested in embarrassing the federal government."

Talks Fail Again

OTTAWA (CP) — Government-sponsored negotiations for ending the long tieup of the CPR's West Coast shipping fleet collapsed Thursday for the second time this week.

Labor Minister Starr said he doubted a third conference would be called unless he could "devise something" that might point to a settlement.

Half CPR Seamen Have Other Jobs

VANCOUVER (CP) — More than half of the Seafarers International Union members on strike against CPR's coast ferries now are working at other jobs, officials of two other striking unions said Thursday.

That's why they are able to stay on strike so long, according to spokesmen for the Canadian Merchant Service Guild and the National Association of Marine Engineers, which represent about 220 officers on strike against the CPR.

Big Day Damp?

An umbrella may be needed by Princess Margaret Saturday morning when she arrives here. Showers, clouds and cooler weather are in the offing, weather officials said last night.

ROUND UP CRACKS DOUK TERRORISM

Bonner Hails RCMP Arrests

Five Sons of Freedom Doukhobors were taken into custody on charges of conspiracy to cause explosions in Kelowna yesterday as the result of RCMP investigations into recent terrorism in the Okanagan.

Stated Attorney General Robert Bonner, "It's the first major break in respect to recent bombing outrages. The RCMP are doing a marvellous job in the Okanagan."

Recent bombings are known to have caused grave concern to authorities in view of the coming visit to Kelowna of Princess Margaret, who is due to stay there for several days.

Mr. Bonner said the charges, which could bring up to life imprisonment on conviction, came as a result of "straight police work and did not come from the $25,000 reward posted for terrorists."

He said the arrests were the result of "scores of hours of intensive police effort."

Specific charges against the five are under section 79 (1) (d) of the Criminal Code.

"Everyone commits an offence who makes or has in his possession or under his care or control an explosive substance with intent thereby (i) to endanger life or to cause serious damage to property, or (ii) to enable another person to endanger life or to cause serious damage to property."

Names of the five are John Antieff, George Yoykin, John Nazarov, Sam Konkin and Alex Konkin.

Detachments of RCMP in the Okanagan have been working round-the-clock since June 30 when four acts of terrorism occurred in one night—an explosion rocked a Kelowna beer parlor; dynamite blasted a power pole near Armstrong; and unexploded bombs were found in a Vernon beer parlor and on the Kelowna ferry.

Mouse Hope Fading

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Hopes of recovering a vital nose cone and its mouse passenger alive after an intercontinental ballistic missile flight through space appeared to be waning.

The search for the mouse was called off because of darkness. It will resume this morning.

Sporadic radio signals have also been picked up from the cone but in insufficient strength to pinpoint the location.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The air force assured mouse lovers that its space-travelling rodent lost somewhere in the south Atlantic has enough food, water and oxygen to last several days.

The tiny creature is comfortably situated in a hammock provided for its 6,000-mile journey.

The mouse, Mia II, is an albino female, winner of pressure chamber tests that proved she was the best of several mice considered for the experiment.

'Armed' Men Hunted On Ike's Course

OTTAWA (CP) — The RCMP called out an extra 30 officers to scour the Ottawa Hunt Club golf course Thursday after a taxi-cab driver reported that two men who may have been armed got out near the grounds while President Eisenhower was playing golf.

The search proved fruitless. No strange men were found on the grounds. James C. Hagerty, Mr. Eisenhower's press secretary, said the police gave no credence to the report but had to "check it out" as a security measure.

No Extension Of NHA Terms

OTTAWA (UPI) — No consideration is being given to extending the National Housing Act to cover loans on second hand houses, Works Minister Howard Green said yesterday.

Storms Strike Ontario

TORONTO (CP) — A series of fierce electrical storms accompanied by a baby twister swept across central Southern Ontario Thursday night causing extensive property damage in waterfront areas and injuring several persons.

A baby twister was reported on Lake Huron, 13 miles east of Orillia. Cottages were knocked over and two persons injured.

HOUSE HIT

In the Lakefield area, 10 miles north of Peterborough, strong winds destroyed one cottage and blew the roof off several more.

In Oshawa five children escaped with a shaking-up when lightning struck their home after travelling 120 feet along a clothesline.

In the Barrie area a dance pavilion was burned when struck by lightning. A cloud-burst flooded streets to 30 inches deep.

Ex-Governor's Car Kills Small Girl

GUYSBOROUGH, N.S. (CP) — RCMP said a car driven by Alastair Fraser, former lieutenant-governor of Nova Scotia, Thursday night struck and killed a 2½-year-old girl on the shore road near here.

Beverly Fougere died of a skull fracture.

Police said Fraser's car was rounding a sharp turn when it "encountered the girl playing in the middle of the road." The child's father, Gerald Fougere, stationed with the RCAF at Chatham, N.B., was visiting his parents here.

LONDON (Reuters) — The Queen had a comfortable day but has been advised by her doctors to remain in bed, Buckingham Palace said Thursday night.

Three royal physicians visited her twice during the day.

'Some Mixup' Cancels Rite

A big crowd waited on a cold evening to see a sunset ceremony, "but no one showed up to perform." Ald. Elmer McEwen told city council yesterday.

Mayor Percy Scourrah said there had been "some mixup" and he doubted that it would happen again.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow said the armed services committee in charge of the ceremonies was doing a fine job.

'City' of Gobs Arrives For Review

By PETER BRUTON

Brace yourself Victoria — the navy has REALLY arrived.

If there were any doubts about it they were quickly dispelled early yesterday afternoon as the gigantic 31,500-ton aircraft carrier USS Bennington slowly slipped into her berth at HMC Dockyard.

The huge attack carrier, largest warship ever to enter Esquimalt Harbor, is a fantastic piece of machinery which is virtually a small city in itself, complete with post office, hospital, stores, cobbler shop and other amenities.

There are upwards of 3,000 officers and men on board and officers expected up to 2,000 men to be on shore leave at any given time. They began streaming ashore as soon as the carrier berthed.

The Bennington is the flagship of Rear Admiral Ralph S. Clarke, USN, commander of Carrier Division Five based at San Diego. Her skipper is Captain James R. Compton, USN.

As soon as the Bennington tied up here yesterday, Rear Admiral R. S. Rayner went aboard to pay his respects. Later Admiral Compton visited Mayor Percy Scourrah and Premier W. A. C. Bennett.

"From here on it's all fun," said Admiral Rayner as soon as he greeted the ship's officers. He was referring to Victoria's Navy Week.

The Bennington was almost four hours late in berthing due to fog which stretched from Cape Flattery to Race Rocks.

"We couldn't see the bow, and although the radar was working well, it was prudent to go slow,"

Bandit Gets $1,500

VANCOUVER (CP) — A young bandit sporting a yellow-checked sport shirt and flashing a nickel-plated revolver held up a suburban Burnaby bank during the noon-hour rush Thursday and escaped with more than $1,500 after dropping his loot and scooping it up again.

A late-model car police said was used by the gunman in his getaway from the Hastings and Sperling Avenue branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia, was found later perfectly parked several miles away. Witnesses there said they saw a young man carefully park the car, then alight and saunter away.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

SOME nameless, well-wisher has been sending me the National Guardian, left-wing socialist weekly published in New York. This friendly gesture will probably earn a paper, even though its outlook differs from mine in a number of ways.

Snippets of information about the radical press of the United States reach Canadians now and again through news services.

These stories represent the Marxist papers as crude and rather dull-witted propaganda journals which are constantly losing their way and tripping over their own feet.

Examination of the real thing shows the news service version to be a misleading caricature.

The National Guardian, which describes itself as "the progressive news weekly," does contain propaganda, but the propaganda is a great deal more subtle and skillfully presented than people imagine.

The paper also contains a fair amount of what seems from here to be objective reporting.

Red Hungary's secret trial and execution of ex-premier Imre Nagy and three of his associates, in violation of a safe-conduct pledge, are reported in some detail in the current number of the National Guardian. The story shows Communist leadership in a sinister light.

The Guardian speaks out plainly against the latest deliberate act of political terror. "Let us have an end of blood and a beginning of reason," the Guardian pleads in an editorial.

Secret Trial 'Appalling'

"That the men should have been tried, convicted and executed in secret... is appalling... The new tragic events in Budapest... will not in the long run deter heresy in Hungary, Yugoslavia or Poland, or the Soviet Union or China, any more than the death sentence has wiped out murder for profit or for lust in the United States or Great Britain."

"In legal and civil-liberties terms," wrote Elmer Bendiner in a signed article, "the communiqué of the Hungarian government—a combination of indictment, verdict, white paper and death notice—is senseless."

"As a political statement underscored by a firing squad, the executions may be considered, and their consequences weighed."

"Tried, convicted and sentenced along with Nagy (was) a set of ideas..."

The condemned ideas: That a Communist country could go its own way without reference to Russia, in Yugoslav style; that unlimited freedom of discussion was possible under Communism.

The executions in Hungary seemed to signal that the argument was ended—except in a limited range—and that the talk of "many roads" bordered by "many flowers blooming" could lead only to counter-revolution for which the wages are death.

"It was dismaying to find the socialist countries still using the methods of secret trial and secret execution after the 'excesses' of earlier years had been so thoroughly condemned. It was still more disheartening to find socialists seeking to kill ideas by killing those who hold them."

Executions Shatter Hopes

"The executions seemed to shatter the hopes of those for whom socialism means not only material benefits, but social justice as well; who saw on the horizon the prospect of a socialist society equipped with a full parliamentary democracy and a non-political judiciary such as the capitalist world has never known..."

So the Guardian writer said, Konni Zilliacus, Labor member of Parliament in Britain, wrote that co-existence had been set back by the Nagy execution. But, said the Guardian editorially...

"...we refuse to lose hope in the possibility of human survival, nor will we be moved in our determination that the fight for peaceful co-existence must go on and succeed."

The National Guardian apparently believes in living at peace with Russia, but does not believe in a Russian-dominated socialism. The left-wing "progressives" in the United States—a small but determined group who in former years might have acknowledged themselves to be Communists—describe their aim as "a planned economy."

"The United Independent Socialist ticket welcomes every development which brings labor into the political arena in collision with the entrenched political machines. We welcome every development which brings the Negro people against the parties of the racist Big Business ruling clique."

"The alliance of labor and the Negro people in struggle for common political objectives will result in the emergence of an independent mass labor party which will attract the support of the small farmer, the professional, youth... This new alignment can effectively battle the monopolist parties. Only then will we have a real two-party system."

'Socialism the Answer'

"Only a socialist economy can end the recurrent crises, war drives, race prejudice and poverty of today and harness the vast resources of our country... to meet the complex needs of the nation..."

That's the way the National Guardian sees it—a viewpoint that will stir up a hot argument. However, it is clearly and vigorously presented.

In support of its aims, the National Guardian plays up racial discrimination where it exists, makes capital of the gifts from rich industrialists to President Eisenhower's right-hand man, Sherman Adams, closely follows such issues as the U.S. State Department's attempt to withhold passports for political reasons and rebukes the U.S. administration for its alleged failure to do anything about unemployment.

Some of the Guardian's stories must be slanted. But it seems that the propaganda is put over by selection of events and details, rather than by outright misrepresentation.

Some of the evils that the Guardian denounces are genuine evils. The cure which that "progressive" newspaper proposes may be worse than the disease. I don't know. I hope the Guardian continues to flourish. Russia, Hungary and China have turned thumbs down on political argument—and free speech. But we still believe in it here.

Pastries for Royal Palate

Hall So Pretty Let's Try Rest

Front of the City Hall, painted a light blue in anticipation of the visit of Princess Margaret, looks so good that council wants to know how much it would cost to have the rest of it painted.

Ald. M. H. Mooney suggested that an estimate for painting the entire building be obtained and council agreed.

Arnold Webb, retiring secretary-manager of Victoria Chamber of Commerce, last night declined to confirm or deny suggestions he will shortly be appointed a deputy minister in the provincial government.

"I would prefer any statement to come from the proper quarter," he said.

E & N Complains

Motorists Ignore Rail Signals

Some motorists pay no attention to recently installed signals at railway crossings on Vancouver Island, E & N Railway superintendent D. C. Hartley said in a letter to the deputy highways minister with a copy to Victoria city in reference to Esquimalt Road crossing.

Referring to signals at Langford, Crooks and Bowser, Mr. Hartley said that "unfortunately our engineers... are unable to get licence numbers due to the speed of the cars and the trains and the angle of approach, but in quite a number of cases if we were to be only a few seconds earlier we would have these licence numbers for a crossing accident report."

It seemed to him, he said, that it was a foolish waste of public and railway money to install and maintain the signals "unless the public are compelled by our law-enforcing agencies to respect them."

A Saanich council letter in the department of transport opposing the use of Elk Lake by aircraft was endorsed.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgell questioned whether the city had any say in the matter, but Mayor Percy Scourrah told him, "we do have the right to protest if we think it's not safe, and that's what we are doing."

Council approved more decorations for the visit of Princess Margaret—15 strings of pennants and flags to be strung across Douglas in the city hall vicinity and another 20 strings of small red, white and blue pennants to be interspersed with them on Douglas between Fisgard and Courtney.

Council asked the city solicitor to prepare a bylaw exempting Goodwill Enterprises from this action was made possible by Municipal Act changes passed at the last session of the legislature.

To avoid the possibility of having to force occupants of two houses on the new firehall site out of their homes, council voted yesterday to offer to help them financially to obtain temporary accommodation, in addition to paying the prices placed on the houses by independent appraisal.

Purchase of eight-lots at the northwest corner of Quadra and Caledonia from Dr. Reuben Matko for approximately $21,750 was approved.

Money for the purchase will come from the Memorial Arena reserve fund.

Council also approved action to acquire another lot in the arena-curling rink area.

It authorized the solicitor to take steps for expropriation of a lot on Blanshard immediately north of the arena.

ANCIENT TOWN Ipswich near London, England, was a settled site perhaps 2,000 years before the Roman occupation.

Paradox of Royalty

This is the second in a series of three articles by the Colonist's Long Sea correspondent.

Margaret Does Her Job For Sake of the 'Firm'

Psychologists have delighted in pulling Princess Margaret to pieces in public and in private. In fact there is nothing complicated about her.

She is a paradox of the British constitution and it is neither with her consent or against her wishes. She accepts what she regards as inevitable, and which was summed up by her father in the words "we are not a family, we are a firm."

She does her job loyally as a member of the firm even though as a normal healthy girl she would like to forget business on occasions and enjoy herself.

Never Off Duty

That is the problem not only of Princess Margaret but all royalty. They are never off duty. They are always in peril of unenviable publicity if they let their hair down and even when they try to be merely conventionally private they are apt to be sniped at from different quarters.

Margaret has suffered acutely and possibly more than most members of the Royal Family because she is the youngest and prettiest and, of course, eligible.

Yet how many normal healthy girls could survive the rigors of protocol and remain as natural as the Princess? Has it ever occurred to the ordinary reader what it must mean—for example at a private party in an eminently respectable London nightclub with possibly a handsome young man as host—never to be out of sight of Scotland Yard detectives? Never to be more than a yard or two from a lady-in-waiting?

Called Flighty When Princess Margaret goes to a night club she is accused of being flighty. If she goes to church on her own she is "going religious"; if she goes nowhere for a few days we are

From Cutworms

Victoria's far-famed hanging flower baskets and its flower boxes have been saved from sabotage almost on the eve of the arrival of Princess Margaret.

If some of the flower boxes had been taken to the nursery in Beacon Hill Park for repainting, the city's floral display might have been ruined.

Flowers in the boxes looked a little droopy, parks administrator W. H. Warren said, and investigation led to the culprits—thousands and thousands of cutworms in the boxes and baskets.

Insecticides have been applied to save the flowers.

The cutworms were discovered "in the nick of time," Mr. Warren said, adding that they were a serious pest this year in lower mainland and Vancouver Island agricultural areas.

Bread Men In Seattle Best Paid

SEATTLE (AP)—Seattle bakery drivers have ratified a new contract giving them the highest scale in the United States, a union official said yesterday.

Charles F. Ulrich, secretary-treasurer of Local 227 of the Bakery Drivers' Union, said the two-year contract provides for $14-a-week wage increases over the next 18 months.

Ulrich said that by November, 1959, the scales will be $116 a week for regular drivers and $124.50 for transport drivers.

hard to understand. True enough the princess has ridden on a London bus and she has traveled on the subway, but it has been a very special occasion and it involved very special arrangements. For her it was a momentary escape into a virtually unknown world—an experience to be treasured rather in the way that a commoner treasures the memory of a visit to Buckingham Palace at a Royal garden party.

No Escape from Aides, Detectives, Public Gaze

Imagine if you can the psychological effect on any normal girl of never having been consciously alone, never having had a date in the sense that ordinary girls understand it, and never having a moment when it is not necessary to think of how a certain action can be interpreted, and usually exaggerated.

Has No Money Remember, too, that what is normal to most people is completely alien to the Princess. She has never handled money. She has never paid her fare on the subway or on a London bus. She has never telephoned a store or known what it is to buy groceries.

Hates Fuss On private occasions she insists on the minimum of fuss, and more than one London theatre manager has been ticked off for such minor ostentations as laying a red carpet for a private theatre visit, or installing more comfortable seating. A restaurateur has lost royal patronage because he thought it discreet not to send the bill when asked for. It is one thing which will not be tolerated. The gesture may be innocent enough—who would not wish to entertain the princess?—but the principle is not allowed.

The complexity of royalty is

Music-Filled Gardens Draw 5,000 People

DOUGLAS JUNG
... "Immature, biased"

Visiting Soloist Excels With Fine Program

By BERT BINNY

Every condition and circumstance was completely ideal for the first of two symphony concerts held at Butchart Gardens last night.

The heat of the day had given way to the cool of the evening; the air was utterly still as if expressly so to carry the music of orchestra and singer to every part of the gardens.

And this was very necessary because there was an enormous crowd (estimated 5,000 people) stretching from the concert platform back to the house and far out to each side.

And yet, with the added parking facilities, traffic was handled smoothly. In the lots licence plates from many states and provinces were in evidence.

The greatest part of these cars arrived packed full of passengers. Public co-operation in sharing cars is fully acknowledged by Mr. and Mrs. Ian Ross of the Butchart Gardens.

Shortly before 8:30 a seaplane circled low over the gardens and landed on Tod Inlet. This signalled the completion of the orchestral roster. Roland Dufrane, regular oboe player, is a resident of Vancouver and for the past three summers has arrived for the Garden Symphony by the same rapid means.

But the time of Mr. Dufrane's arrival was just about 10½ hours after the arrival of the first of the audience, a woman who put in her appearance at 10 a.m.

The concert started with the overture to Verdi's "La Forza del Destino," sometimes called the "Sinfonia." Its opening trumpet notes were powerful and compelling, fitting invitation to the musical highlights that were to follow.

"As beautiful singing as you have ever heard," was conductor Hans Gruber's description of the calibre of performance to be expected from soloist Charles Davis.

Mr. Davis certainly did not belie it. His opening number was from Mozart's "Don Giovanni," and this was followed by the more familiar "M'appari tutt'amor" from Flotow's "Martha."

Also on Mr. Davis' program was the familiar and delightful "La Donna e Mobile" from Verdi's "Rigoletto."

In the second half of the program, Corol McCartney, a well-known member of the symphony orchestra, was heard to great advantage in Beethoven's "Romance for Violin," and Mr. Davis returned with songs from the pen of Richard Strauss.

The second concert takes place next Thursday.

Donor Wants More Benches

An anonymous donor, described by city manager C. C. Wyatt as "a very fine gentleman," gave the city $500 yesterday to provide more benches on the streets.

The donor imposed no conditions, Mr. Wyatt told council, except to say that he would like to see one of the benches placed at the northwest corner of Douglas and Yates.

OTTAWA (CP)—Statements about Russia attributed to a Progressive Conservative member of Parliament now in Paris drew sparks Thursday in the Senate and a "no comment" from Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

"What right has this Chinaman got to represent the Canadian people?" Senator Farris asked hotly.

Among other things, Mr. Jung was quoted in Paris as saying that Canadian delegations sent to Russia are "hand-picked, well-briefed by their governments, politically immature and naturally very biased."

Ease Up on Strap Court Warns Dad

Henry Hoffer, 3906 Holland, was found guilty yesterday in Saanich court of assault causing bodily harm, and placed under bond of $500 to be of good behavior, especially with regard to his 8-year-old son Myles, for six months.

Accused was charged with assaulting the boy June 17 at the family home, using a doubled and redoubled electric extension cord.

On the stand, accused produced a leather belt which he said he used in a "disciplinary strapping" of his son. He said he took the cord upstairs when he took the boy up, but did not use it.

Trouble arose, he said, over the boys missing school repeatedly. The father said he wanted to talk it all out with his son, but got only childish answers so strapped him "about a half-dozen times" with the belt.

B.C. Wild Animal Law Sets Top Fine of $300

New B.C. regulations governing the keeping of wild animals set a maximum fine of $300 for anyone keeping a wild animal in captivity without a permit. A permit costs $100 a year and may or may not be granted depending on the facilities available and inspection by the game branch.

Medical evidence was offered by prosecutor Kenneth Murphy as to bruises suffered by the boy in the assault.

Gordon Stanley Innes, Rocky Point Road, pleaded guilty in city police court yesterday to impaired driving.

Police said accused was driving on Esquimalt Road Wednesday at 6:27 p.m. when his car skidded over the sidewalk at Tyee, hit a retaining wall and overturned.

Delbert Anderson, 44 Menzies, was found guilty in Saanich court of consuming liquor in a public place, and fined $50. Incident took place June 13 in a parking lot at Sayward Beach.

A case which began in Saanich police court yesterday as a trial before a magistrate was converted into a preliminary hearing on direction of Magistrate Henry C. Hall.

Reginald John Barker, 17, of 418 Craigflower, was charged with a morals offence involving a six-year-old girl. He was arrested May 12, and after legal counsel was obtained for him elected to be tried by a magistrate and pleaded not guilty.

A succession of events, including absence of witnesses and illness of defence counsel James Proudfoot, delayed trial until yesterday. Magistrate Hall committed accused to trial in higher court.

A Committee on Defence

THE creation of an advisory committee of three members each from the United States and Canadian cabinets to make recommendations on the strengthening of mutual continental defence may prove one of the few positive actions to emerge from the present meeting of President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Diefenbaker and their aides at Ottawa. It is also one of the very few decisions which the two government leaders could make at a cabinet level without the assent of their legislatures. The agreed plan is to have the committee when formed meet alternately at Washington and Ottawa, without power to command but with leave to advise on all defence matters with a view to a closer working accord between the two countries.

This agreement rather than President Eisenhower's speech—an interesting state document but not an active incursion into trans-border relations on trade or other matters—has drawn chief attention in Canada so far. There is no doubt that Canada and the United States both can do more to improve their liaison on defence, especially where this touches the Arctic Circle. Direct cabinet-to-cabinet talks if initiated could eliminate a good deal of delay and red tape, and make more effective any step taken with the joint objective of continental defence in this hemisphere. At its cabinet level there need be no inference that such a committee would step beyond its advisory role.

Less satisfactory, by reason of the divided authorities involved, have been current announcements respecting trade and tariffs across the common border. Here, of course, both the president and the prime minister must consult their legislatures before effective action could follow. It is rather a pity, in view of this, that Mr. Eisenhower touched on the subject of trade if all that he had to say was that there would be no change in the United States viewpoint on several matters now in sharp enough dispute. Canada is ready for a give-and-take attitude on such differences, but it cannot be all give and no take. There must somewhere be a reasonable and just mean.

More Lifeguards Needed

AT an inquest in Vancouver this week into the drowning of a child in a public pool evidence was given that the number of official lifeguards on duty was insufficient to supervise adequately the large numbers of young bathers present. Later the jury recommended a sustained public safety education campaign, with special emphasis on supervision of young swimmers.

The Vancouver tragedy, occurring among crowds of people, raises a question as to the adequacy of lifeguard service in this region. Thetis, Elk and Beaver Lakes have grown in popularity with young bathers to a remarkable degree this year, partly due to the continuous hot weather and partly to increasing interest in swimming for self-protection as well as pleasure. Every day of the week children swarm to these lakes, in the mornings as well as later in the day. Many of them are unaccompanied by adults. Yet for a large part of the week there are no organized lifesaving arrangements to take care of those who all too easily could find themselves in serious difficulties.

During the school holidays every sunny day is a day for swimming, but there are long gaps in the lifeguard roster.

At Thetis Lake the city employs a lifeguard six days a week, with Monday off. Victoria-Saanich Beaches and Parks Committee has two guards, one at Beaver Lake and the other at Eagles Park, Elk Lake, but only on Saturdays, Sundays, Wednesdays and statutory holidays. There are no guards on duty the other four days of the week. At Happyland the concessionaire, perhaps unreasonably, is made responsible for provision of a lifeguard at his own expense. In the case of the publicly-employed guards duties run only from noon until 8 p.m., with nobody on watch in the mornings.

These precautions appear to be far from adequate. Surely it is unbalanced to have lifeguards on watch on the days and at the times when adults are more likely to be present but none at the other more risky times. It is not suggested that the city council or Victoria-Saanich should undertake unaided the expense of maintaining a sufficient number of guards at lakes extensively used by children of all Greater Victoria. This is a matter which might well be taken under advisement by the now active intermunicipal committee—but soon, for as summer advances the lakes are being used for swimming by larger and larger numbers of children.

Naval Occasions

WITH the arrival of British and American warships the RCN's annual "Navy Week" is now under way. It is of exceptional quality this year. The week-long display was omitted last summer because of sea-going operations and a desire to concentrate on the 1958 centennial celebrations. As a result there is an assemblage of ships unlike anything seen here before and a planned program of rousing interest all round.

The highlight of course will come when the Princess Margaret reviews the Canadian, British and U.S. ships at the Royal Roads anchorage next Tuesday. This will be a miniature Spithead review and something no Victorian will want to miss. Every vantage point on shore is sure to be crowded and the sight will be something to see and remember for long to come.

An intimate foretaste of the fleet gathering will be given this morning when over a thousand men, sailors of the RCN, the RN and the USN, parade through town with Lieutenant-Governor Ross taking the salute en route. This should prove an unusually attractive show, and there will be an interesting contrast between three navies of different customs. In addition it will be a fine demonstration of international naval co-operation.

Victorians are fortunate also in having the opportunity to board the various ships under the RCN's open house policy. The chance is certain to be eagerly grasped in a town so rich in naval tradition. That tradition is stressed by the visit of HMS Newcastle, whose predecessor of the same name berthed here at a crucial moment of the first world war. It is enhanced by the friendly visit of USS Bennington and other American vessels. It is further emphasized by the RCN's own destroyer escort squadrons, which with the cruiser Ontario and other craft will naturally comprise the largest part of this international assemblage.

All in all this naval contribution to the centennial celebrations is of first-rate quality. What with band concerts, dances and entertainments, illuminated displays and, the day following the Royal Roads review, a spectacular steam-past along the Beacon Hill waterfront, this year's "Navy Week" will command much civic pride and enthusiasm. The RCN never fails to keep its lustre bright in association with local festivities.

Interpreting the News

Communist Leaders 'Visiting'

By CHARLES M. MCCANN
UPI Foreign News Analyst

TWO current conferences in Eastern Europe may result in some developments in the Communist world.

Soviet Premier Khrushchev is visiting East Germany, the most servile of Russia's satellites.

President Tito of Yugoslavia is playing host to President Nasser of the United Arab Republic and Foreign Minister Averoff of Greece.

Khrushchev is trying to tighten discipline in the Soviet bloc of countries.

His talks with Walter Ulbricht and other East German leaders may result in further pressure against Polish leader Gomulka, whom the Kremlin still regards as too independent-minded.

It is probable also that Khrushchev will discuss possible moves against Tito, whose relations with Russia are getting steadily worse because of his refusal to get back on the Communist party line.

In addition, Khrushchev is trying to build up the prestige of the puppet East German regime. It is because of this attempt that Russia insists that the United States deal with the East German regime in negotiating for the release of nine American army men who made a forced landing in East Germany when their fog-bound helicopter ran out of gas.

Tito appears to be making a strong bid to persuade Nasser that he is making a big mistake by maintaining close relations with Russia.

Tito and Nasser both seem to aim at strengthening their relations with Greece. There is talk of a possible Yugoslav-U.A.R.-Greek bloc pointed toward mutual co-operation and, if possible, the alignment of Greece in a mutual "non-committed" or "neutralist" policy.

Any action along this line would naturally weaken Greece's ties with its fellow members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The official reason for Khrushchev's visit to East Germany is his desire to attend a seven-day congress of the East German Communist Party at Pankow, near Berlin.

Khrushchev evidently regarded the visit as necessary. To make it, he had to ask Chancellor Julius Raab of Austria to postpone his visit to Russia, which had been set for mid-July.

Thinking Aloud

"... of shoes—and ships—and sailing wax—of cabbages and kings."
By TOM TAYLOR

THE Ottawa Journal, albeit in passing comment, is moved to wonder what greatness is or how it is measured, and a ripe plum this is for discussion at any time.

We say of someone, perhaps, probably behind his back, that "he's a great boob," or of another, this time in his presence, that "he's a great little guy," but this is a lazy kind of generality. We don't pinpoint greatness itself.

It is not easy to be meticulous on the subject for greatness can be compounded of many qualities, or sins. If a good man can be great so also, unfortunately, can be a bad man.

I am meandering thus, because lingering in my mind is a live TV showing of the Brazilian team which won the world soccer title in Sweden last month. I have no intention of usurping the priorities of the sports page or of boring readers with details of a game which may be uninteresting to them. The theme shall be greatness alone.

For of course greatness is not to be confined to politics, to music, to military skill, or to any one realm of human activity. The man next door to you might for all his quietness have the stuff of heart, of character and integrity that makes him essentially a great man. The eminent have no monopoly of this distinction.

I am not a TV assessor of note, even if some people have asked me since I got back what I thought of British television. I saw very little of it, and what I did didn't impress me particularly, either BBC or ITV versions. I did speculate one day two weeks ago on the motives that impelled both these mediums to run a continuous three-hour telecast of the Wimbledon tennis tournament, which, without prejudice to a fine game, I found exceedingly dull. That of course might have been because the performers there this year, according to accredited tennis experts, were of mediocre standard. There was no greatness among them.

It was otherwise with the TV broadcast of the semi-final soccer game, Brazil versus France, for here artistic display was raised to the level of greatness. As one who has been linked to this sport since he was a boy I have no hesitation in saying that never did Great Britain, the birthplace of this game, produce footballers of such superlative attainment. Not in one single eleven, at least.

I will not weary you with a dissertation on the amazing dexterity of the Brazilians, to the utter confoundment of the French team, of their sleight of foot, their uncanny positional play and interchange, or of their supreme ball control. It was, in a sense, out of this world; certainly out of the ordinary football world. But these are the techniques. What was significant was the sense of mastery they conveyed, the majesty of their exposition.

This was greatness, in its own field. And obviously it was the result of artistic perception, long and arduous practice, and strict personal discipline. No man is great at anything without stern dedication to a purpose.

It was a revelation of the high level which sporting skill may reach, seemingly the ultimate expression of its kind, and one which caused never-ceasing wonder among all onlookers, whether on the touchline or in front of a TV screen.

Perhaps the Brazilians will never again touch such a height of glory. Patriotism, for this was the underlying spur during the world cup competition, may have induced their finest hour when it was most needed. But certainly on this day they deserved the accolade of greatness. Nothing like it had ever been seen on a soccer field before.

Dwindling Importance of the Mails

By RICHARD L. THOMAS

THE British post office seems to be in the process of psycho-analyzing itself these days. It admits quite frankly that the postal service has deteriorated sharply in the last 40 years, but wants us to believe that the public does not really mind and even if it does it is not prepared to pay the price of comparative efficiency.

Times have changed—and with it I am told, the importance of the mails. At one time the London policeman would give preference to a mail van. Now, in a world of traffic lights and added congestion, the mail van is just another truck. Postmen today are paid 12 times as much as they were at the beginning of the century. Postage is only three times as much. Something had to go—and it has gone.

The volume of mail has increased enormously—but what sort of mail? A modest posting of 4,000,000 soap coupons maybe offering sixpence off—or two tablets for the price of one and the coupon; millions of football pool coupons every week, and with the growth of the small investor millions of company reports and balance sheets. So it goes on. The mails are getting gummed up with matter which, by no stretch of the imagination, can be classed as of paramount urgency. Newspaper and magazine sales have soared and with them the volume of postal subscriptions.

And the genuinely first-class mail... half of it I am told is not really first class in the old sense. Much of it is confirming telephone conversations. A big volume of domestic correspondence has been eliminated by the telephone. About half the businesses and industries of Britain do not deal with mail on Saturdays or Sundays because of the five-day week. Because the pattern of correspondence has changed the service is no longer as vital as it used to be, and according to the post office, the public does not mind and certainly they would not pay for the sort of service they used to get.

When the post office discontinued Sunday deliveries many years ago there was an outcry. When the post office suspended Saturday afternoon and bank holiday deliveries last April there was barely a whimper. It is admitted that those who would have whimpered most—the newspapers, the valiant di-hardards of the six-day week were looked after. The other customers could wait.

And the post office is quite logical about it. Who wants mail on Saturday afternoons or Monday bank holidays except the likes of me? Even if we were awaiting a bank draft, what could we do with it if we had it? We could not pay into the bank because they are closed. If a love letter from an absent wife was delayed surely it would be all the sweeter for the suspense of waiting? If it was a ticking off from the boss then you would be grateful that the weekend was not spoiled.

But, argues the post office, if it was really important—such as the joyful news of the demise of a rich maiden aunt from whom there were great expectations, then the information would obviously come by telegraph or telephone. Bad news travels fast.

And behind it all there is inexorable bureaucratic logic. After all occasional letters do go astray, the odd letter gets delayed even when mails are normal, there are mis-sorts because of careless postmen or defects in the education system which create such shocking writing in so many people. And the world does not stop because of it.

So, says the post office, you must lump it. You have got to keep going in the changing world. Mails are of decreasing importance. The important means of communication is the telephone; and the telephone, we are assured, will be so good that it simply can't be true.

Taximeter telephones with long-distance calls for twopenny, teleprinters to take telegrams and cables when you are not there, automatic recording devices to take messages when your phone does not answer—these are needs of the modern world. The British post office is responsible for these things and it is working hard to create the telephonic millennium, and thanks to electronics and automation it is a service which will be working throughout the 24 hours seven days a week.

But that does not mean the post office is indifferent to the mails—far from it. The soap coupons must go through, and so we are getting automation in the sorting offices which will speed the processes of sorting on as to increase manpower output. We are promised electronic eyes which will read addresses and translate them in code and read the value of the stamps. It is hoped that these machines will speed the mails to compensate in part for fewer deliveries. It is all part of the pattern of the changing world.

The Packsack

By GREGORY CLARK

LAST week I was on a 2,500-mile journey across Canada in one of those fast super-continental trains that try, with some success in bad weather, to vie with the airlines in getting you happily from the Atlantic to the Pacific. And on nearing my destination I was astonished to meet on the train an old friend, a lawyer, whom I had not seen in the diner at any of the meals, nor in the scenic domes of the club car in which most of us passengers try to spend at least an hour or two, especially in the mountains.

"Where have you been?" I protested.

"Holed up," said the lawyer, "in my compartment."

"But surely," I said, "you haven't slept all the way across?"

"Not by a darn sight," said he. "This is strictly a business trip. I have been working 14 hours a day. I do this four or five times a year. When my work piles up to a point where it is almost paralyzing me, I just reserve a return trip compartment on this train. Nobody can get at me. No telephone, no door through which urgent clients can enter. Just a cosy little room with pleasant scenery ever changing out of my window. I have just about completed work on a brief that would have driven me nuts back in my office. 'Where are you staying?' I asked. 'Let's have dinner tonight, eh, or tomorrow?'"

"Can't," he said, "my train leaves back in two hours."

What an interesting way to use a railroad. An ever-moving hide-away.

Not To Be Rushed

On Becoming Canadian

(From The Ottawa Journal)

A BRITISH COLUMBIA judge complained in Victoria recently that many "new Canadians" are taking their oaths of allegiance to Canada too lightly. He adduces, as evidence of his contention, appearance of a group of Russian-Canadians in old country costume, enthusiastically greeting the arrival at the Vancouver airport of a new giant Russian jet plane, and bowing to the pilot. Similar demonstrations, he added, were organized by Dutch-Canadians during the recent visit of Prince Bernhard.

His Honor is seriously concerned about the attachment of these and other recent arrivals in this country to their native lands and traditions. He advises them to join Canadian fraternal and community organizations instead of banding together in tight little national groups.

The judge's views are not without merit, but where do they lead if followed to a full conclusion?

Exit the Morse Operator

(From The Saint John Telegraph-Journal)

THE Morse telegraph operator, in his heyday the first individual in a community to learn of world news events—is disappearing from the scene. And in the outposts of Newfoundland, where radio-telephones are replacing his specialized services, some of the secrecy of communication goes with him.

For, as Mr. Chesley W. Carter, MP for Burin-Burgeo, pointed out in the House of Commons, only the operator in the community telegraph office could understand the Morse messages, but anyone in the place can overhear what is sent by radio-telephone.

That ability to translate the dots and dashes of the clicking sounders into words and sentences gave the Morse operator a special position of importance in any community.

For he was the first to hear and transcribe the important news of the day, frequently amplified by personal "chats" with other operators at the scene.

Disasters, wars, the World Series, championship ring fights and election results were among the events that flowed from his nimble fingers to neatly typewritten copy paper for use by newspapers. His profession produced many famous characters.

Education Too Free?

Reading the disturbing account of the all-night graduation party raises the question whether our free so-called education should be so free.

How come so much money for cars and liquor? Does it come from family allowance, with mother and father working and no supervision?

Much to Be Proud Of

It is our desire to thank the citizens of British Columbia for a most memorable trip. We spent a lovely two weeks within the province and were met everywhere with utmost courtesy and friendliness.

Most of our time was spent camping in your lovely camps and they are the most beautiful and best maintained that we have even seen anywhere, including our very over-published California.

The camp site at Miracle Beach, supervised by Mr. Frank Rainbow, is truly a miracle and he is to be commended highly for the manner in which the camp is run.

British Columbia has much to be proud of and we only hope you appreciate these areas as we did.

MR. and MRS. JOHN C. TAYLOR.
Route 2, Box 1272, Marysville, California.

Within One's Means

Each year for the past five years when we get back home we have been going to write to your fine paper to tell you folks up there how we love Victoria and its people. It's with sadness in our hearts when it's time to leave. We have gotten to know some lovely people personally and I want to congratulate all on your courtesy and hospitality shown tourists.

We like many tourists for the first visit, were directed to the highest price motels so even though we loved the city we were afraid we could not make the trip as often as we had hoped, as we wanted to shop too.

This story has a happy ending. The place we were directed to was full, so they sent us to another auto court and there we found a place within our means, so we were able to stay two weeks and shop as well for a very moderate price.

The point I am trying to bring out is, if the travel information bureau would send people to places within a tourist's means, the tourist would spend more on souvenirs for home, then everyone benefits, because we are able to stay longer to enjoy your beautiful city.

'Atomic Bridgehead'

We're U.S. Pawn
Pravda Maintains

LONDON (Reuters).—The Soviet Communist party newspaper Pravda said yesterday the United States is trying to turn

Canada into an economic vassal and "bridgehead for destructive atomic warfare."

In an article on the current Canadian-American talks in Ottawa, Pravda declared:

"The American monopolies, with the direct support of the United States government, are trying to reduce Canada to the role of a raw materials appendage of the United States."

"At the same time, by means of sundry military agreements, the ruling circles of the United States are intensively transforming Canada into a bridgehead for destructive atomic warfare."

Pravda said: "The call 'Canada for the Canadians,' so often heard lately in Canada, is one to which the high-standing guests from Washington will also have to listen."

BREMEN, Ind. — Robert Earl Hughes, 32, possibly the heaviest man in medical history, died yesterday in his trailer home beside a hospital. Uremia evidently was the cause of the 1,041-pound man's death.

He could not be taken into the hospital building because of his massive bulk. The carnival star was 10 feet two inches around the waist, 10 inches around each upper arm, and 6 feet tall.

OTTAWA (CPI).—Canada and the United States strengthened their common continental defence effort Thursday by putting its control in the hands of a joint cabinet committee.

The decision, announced as President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Diefenbaker neared the end of their three-day conference, links the civilian authority of the two nations more closely with the direction of continental security.

The move constituted one of two major agreements reached by the president and the prime minister in their first informal face-to-face meeting to conflict with presidential press secretary Hagerty's interpretation that the two leaders had agreed only to consultation between the two governments when their export laws and policies were out of harmony.

Mr. Diefenbaker told questioners in the Commons that the Red China agreement means Canada will be free from interference in the sale abroad of goods which Canada considers non-strategic.

earthquake, felt throughout all of southeast Alaska Wednesday night, left three known dead and two missing.

The dead were three picnickers sucked into the sea when the quake sheared off the tip of an island in Yakutat Bay.

Shock wave from the Alaskan earthquake was severe enough here to put two of six seismographs at the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory out of kilter.

The two delicate instruments stuck at the maximum position. The other four, however, gave excellent readings.

The quake, estimated to be 9.0 miles north west of here in the Gulf of Alaska, had an intensity of about 8 on the Richter Scale, in which the most severe earthquake recorded has been 8.5.

Huge Bennington
Arrives for Review

said Captain William I. Martin, chief of staff to Admiral Clarke, Captain Martin next month will take command of the U.S. Navy's latest carrier, the 63,000-ton USS Independence, a ship more than twice the size of the Bennington.

The jets carried by the Bennington will be grounded as long as the ship is here, including the 1,032-mile-an-hour Crusader aircraft which is aboard.

And although the jets form the mainstay of the Bennington's attack sting, there are also propeller-driven planes aboard.

"Propeller aircraft are still very much in the picture," said Capt. Martin. "In an all-out nuclear war we must have planes for low flying which can get under the radar, and propeller planes are best for this."

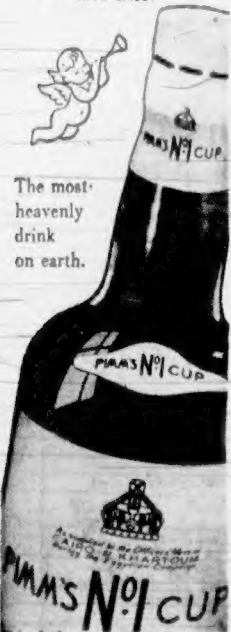

The Bennington, by the way, is the aircraft carrier which is seen by thousands of Victorians who regularly watch the TV show "Navy Log." Her crew, marshalled on the huge deck of the carrier, spelled out the title "Navy Log" for the show.

Admiral Clarke, in a message to Victorians, said that his ship had been "looking forward" to this visit for a long, long time although another carrier nearly came instead.

"It took a lot of talking but finally we talked our way into it," said Captain Martin.

Jobless Drain
Insurance Fund

OTTAWA (CP) - Wintertime sharpest drain during the unemployment has caused the 12-month period occurred during largest annual drop in the unemployment insurance fund.

A decline of $184,763,278 in the fund during the 12 months ended May 31 was shown in figures tabled Thursday in the Commons by Labor Minister Starr.

At May 31, the fund had a balance remaining of $662,056,157.

An official of the Unemployment Insurance Commission said later there has never been a comparable 12-month decline in the fund since unemployment insurance was begun in July, 1941.

He said the last time the fund has been as low was in March, 1951, when it stood at some $664,500,000.

In the 12 months, June, 1957, to May, 1958, benefit payments totalled $436,728,745 and the fund receipts were $251,966,467. Insurance payments from the fund have been running ahead of receipts since December. The

Chief Dances on Warpath

CALGARY (CP) - An Indian chief who is at war with the white man's indifference to the plight of western Indians leads part of his colorful tribe in dances and displays at the Calgary Stampede, which goes into its fifth day today.

Chief Clarence McHugh of the Blackfoot tribe said in an interview Thursday he is determined to improve the lot of the Indians, particularly in education.

"Our school system is backward, make no mistake," he emphasized. "We need better teachers, better facilities."

The chief agrees Indians and cowboys are the blood brothers of the stampede. While the cowboys bring the thrills, Indians add color and history to the week-long rodeo and exhibition. But the 30-year-old leader added:

"The Indians need better education and vocational skills so they can improve their standard of living whether they elect to stay on the reserve or go out into the white man's world."

Each night the throb of drums sounds across the stampede grounds as the Indians dance at Medicine men, bells jangling sunset in beaded buckskin and brilliant headdress, under the Sun Tree at the 29 teepee Indian village.

Each morning, mounted groups from Blackfoot, Sarcee and Stoney tribes, parade through downtown Calgary. In the huge stampede grounds, the nightly tribal dances are among the biggest attractions. Totem Leaves For Vancouver

A replica of Chief Mungo Martin's Royal Totem Pole leaves here early today for Vancouver, where it will be erected in Stanley Park.

B.C. Centennial Committee chairman L. J. Wallace said yesterday the Vancouver Centennial Committee had decided against requesting that Princess Margaret dedicate the totem during her stay in British Columbia.

The Royal Totem will officially be accepted by Queen Elizabeth in England July 19, he said.

NEW PROJECT

Chief Mungo Martin, assisted by his nephew, Henry Hunt, and son, David, carved the replica, too. Chief Martin and Henry Hunt now will move to another important totem project.

They will begin carving duplicates of three totem poles now in big crates at Thunderbird Park. The originals will be kept by the provincial museum. The duplicates will go back to the villages of the Kitwano Indians, between the Skeena and the Nass rivers in the Hazelton area.

DEAL WITH TRIBE

That was the deal struck by provincial anthropologist Wilson Duff after several years of negotiation with the very independent Indian tribe—the province could have the totem poles, from about the last of the stands of B.C. totems, if duplicates would be carved and sent back.

Mr. Duff is now in Ottawa studying on a fellowship. Michael Kew, his assistant, said the work would start soon and take "several months."

SONG COLLECTION

Chief Martin also will be busy preserving another aspect of Indian life.

His granddaughter, Gloria Cramer, a graduate anthropologist and a graduate of Victoria High School, has been awarded a Kerner fellowship to tape record his extensive collection of ancient tribal songs.

Duncan Chamber:

'Let B.C. Control All Coast Ships'

DUNCAN — The Duncan Chamber of Commerce, Wednesday night decided to petition the provincial government to take steps to bring control of all coastal steamship and other vital services under direct control of the province.

Will Dohson, chamber president, said that the province should have had the same authority in the CPR strike that it used when it stepped in and took control of the Black Ball ferries and kept the service running.

"In the operation of the coastal steamship services it is the Pacific region which is most vitally concerned," he said, "and control should be provincial also."

Miss Joyce Gooding, council member, urged that when a labor dispute so vitally concerns the west that western mediators should be employed instead of eastern men.

"The eastern mediators cannot have the same knowledge of western conditions as would mediators who live here," Mr. Dohson added.

The jury said that Columbus came to his death due to impaired driving for reasons unknown.

A string of witnesses brought before the inquest jury told of how a car similar to the one Columbus was driving was "weaving across the highway" prior to the accident.

Communities Buy 50 Cake Candles

NANAIMO — Vancouver hasn't bought a candle for B.C.'s giant centennial cake in Nanaimo, but Victoria snapped one up, Nanaimo centennial committee chairman George Molecey said yesterday.

Candles are going at $12.50 apiece and will be inscribed with the name of the community which buys one before being placed on the cake. About 50 have been sold.

The local committee, and city council, has everything set for Princess Margaret's visit Wednesday, but is awaiting final approval of plans.

Accommodation near the cake site has been reserved for about 2,000 elderly citizens. The Princess will cut the cake from a raised dais and will be seen by most of the crowd.

The Chaplins were in their garden about 9.30 p.m. when they noticed a red glow in the windows of the house, which they dismissed as the reflection of the setting sun. It wasn't until flames and smoke belched from the windows that they realized what had happened.

They immediately turned the alarm in to the firehall only a few hundred yards away. Some

Navies Patrol Victoria

With hundreds of men from three navies in port, shore patrol has become a bigger-than-normal part of the downtown Victoria scene.

Wednesday night combined RCN-RRN patrols covered the city.

Last night, following arrival at Esquimalt of the U.S. aircraft carrier USS Bennington, the patrols became three-navy.

Beginning at 6 p.m. yesterday the shore patrol office beside city police headquarters became "home base" for about 100 seamen of the three navies. From then on they made 20-minute patrols through the city, each patrol of four or five men made up of representatives of each navy.

Lt. Cmdr. L. Kerridge, RCN, in overall charge, was optimistic. They expected no trouble, he said.

A check of Vancouver Island's salmon fishing areas yesterday showed that while there are areas with excellent fishing, it is not generally as good as it was at this time last year.

On the south Island, Saanich Inlet is rated as good. Anglers are bringing in plenty of spring salmon from four and six pounders and there is some evidence that bigger ones are moving in. Anglers out from Brentwood have been scoring in Cole Bay and in the stretch between Willis Point and McKenzie Bay. At the Goldstream end, it has been very good in the area bounded by Goldstream Island, Chesterfield Rock and Mistry Bay.

Regulars have been coming off Oak Bay this week and there is reason to believe that fishing there is improving. It slowed badly off Sooke over the weekend after a school of killer whales moved in Saturday but Pedder Bay Marina reports improving fishing, particularly in the late evening, off Pedder Bay. The Rocky Point side, along the kelp beds, has been best there.

Mrs. Helena Bryn-Jones continues to boat salmon off Sidney Spit and Rhys-Davies pulled in a limit there Wednesday evening. A few fish are being taken in Cowichan Bay but the first run is not yet in. However, it's a place to watch and could be the spot within a week or 10 days.

Up-Island, fishing is generally good between Comox and Campbell River while French Creek Boat House reported good fishing off French Creek last night.

Between Comox and Campbell River, limit catches of coho are no rarity, particularly off Shelter Bay and Cape Mudge, and anglers are also picking up good numbers of spring salmon. Bates Beach Boat House reports boats are bringing in fair numbers of good-sized springs and anglers out from Little River, Miracle Beach, Saratoga Beach and Oyster Bay are getting coho. And for anyone going up Island for a holiday within the next two weeks, bring along type tackle. The big fellows are about due in Comox Harbor and Campbell River and while both spots have had poor type fishing for the past two or three years, both should be worth a try.

Most disconsolate angler in the Victoria area at the moment is Bob Wright, who is telling a sad, sad story and looks reproachful when it invariably results in a gleeful smirk from his listeners.

Bob took a Camrose friend, Harvey Young, fishing last week and when Young got his knuckles rapped playing what seemed to be a good-sized fish, Bob didn't hesitate when he was asked to take over and finish the job.

He entered the 17-pounder in the King Fisherman Contest but feeling a bit guilty, he insisted that Young take the next fish caught when the pair returned to Oak Bay waters two days later.

To cut it short, a fish was hooked, Young played it, Bob netted it and it weighed 34 pounds.

"And I've been trying for five years to beat 30 pounds," Bob will tell you if he can corner you.

I know the veteran angler would prefer that it wasn't mentioned but it's his hat off to Art Mawer, who has made it possible to have all the usual refreshments and a fine list of prizes for the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association junior derby with a $250 donation.

For the past two years, the derby has been sponsored by a manufacturing firm, which donated enough money so that it was not only possible to put up a fine array of prizes but also to pay for rental boats used by the youngsters. When the firm changed ownership the sponsorship was lost and VSIAA officials had little luck in finding another sponsor. A brewery donated $200 and Mawer then ended worries with his generous donation. There won't be enough to pay for boat rentals this year but the derby, scheduled for August 24, should be as successful as ever.

As most of you must have noticed, navy uniforms are a more common sight than ever in Victoria. Which brings us to the fact that Victoria anglers with boats can do a good turn by offering to take visiting sailors out fishing.

Many American and British sailors have expressed a desire to fish for the salmon they have heard so much about but without knowledge of our fishing grounds or procedures there is little chance of success.

Anyone who would like to help out is asked to get in touch with the Armed Service Centre, 1314A Broad Street (telephone 2-0771). You can be certain of an appreciative fishing partner for the weekend.

J. H. Hawes was the winner of first prize for June in the monthly fishing competition of the RCN Anglers' Association with a 20-pound, two-ounce spring salmon. Sid Alexander won second prize with an 18-pound, nine-ounce spring and B. Humbertstone third prize with a 17½-pounder.

Al Bennett of HMCS Antigonish won first prize for the special ship's competition with a 14-pound, two-ounce spring; Mrs. E. P. Taylor topped the ladies' competition with a six-pound, 13-ounce fish; Jackie Miliken won the junior prize with a four-pound, six-ounce fish and Jack James won the hidden-weight prize. Hawes won a bronze button for his 20-pounder and H. Rochford won a silver button with a 14½-pounder.

And a reminder to RCNAA members—the annual RCNAA derby will be in Saanich Inlet on August 10.

And for the angler who phoned in for the information, the Quilcum Fish and Game Association salmon derby starts Saturday morning at 6 and ends Sunday afternoon at 4. Weigh-in stations are at Quilcum Beach Boat House and at the French Creek Fishing Camp. First fishing prize is $50 in cash and the top prize, for which all ticket-purchasers are eligible, is a $350 car-top boat.

Mounties Fight Back For First Series Win

Vancouver Mounties got five-bit pitching from righthander George Bamberger and a home run from Joe Durham last night as they edged the San Diego Padres, 3-2, in the third game of their seven-game series.

Ducham's homer, his 16th of the season, came in the fifth inning and broke a 2-2 tie as Bamberger picked up his seventh win of the season.

Sceptre's Captain Fired— Old Rival Takes Command

LONDON (AP)—Jim Siorance of the Sceptre—the man who was expected to captain the British yacht in the America's Cup race—has been fired.

The news leaked out after the Sceptre's crew was presented to Prince Philip at Buckingham Palace.

Siorance, 50-year-old seafarer with grey hair curling out of his ears, was at the reception. But Captain Stanley Bishop —his old rival—was presented to the prince as the man in command of Britain's cup hope.

Siorance has been in charge of the 12-metre yacht since she was launched in April and a crew of two professional hands have been getting the Sceptre into racing trim for her big test in September off Newport, R.I.

Now Siorance has been voted out of command by a syndicate of wealthy yachts-

Hazards of Car Racing

It didn't take youthful Charlie Andrews long to learn the hazards of car racing. Driving in the second race of his career at Western Speedway last weekend, Andrews' jalopy spun off the track, rolled over stump-ridden clearing and wound up in the woods on the west side of the Speedway stands.

On route, the car knocked down tree measuring seven inches at base and force of blow drove tree through bottom of the car. Andrews, who will be driving at Speedway Saturday night, looks over damage—and tree. (Photo by Bud Glover)

Righthander Lew Burdette, no great shucks as a pitcher last night but transformed into a hitting menace by that looming left-field screen in Los Angeles Coliseum, increased Milwaukee Braves' National League lead to a game and a half by beating the Dodgers with his bat, 8-4.

Burdette hit a grand slam home run in the fourth inning and then hit another over the screen later in the game to hat in the five runs he needed to make up for his pitching, which yielded four runs on 11 hits.

They were the second and third home runs of Burdette's major league career. His first two came last August in a game against Cincinnati.

It was only the third win for the Braves in 11 games this season with the trailing Dodgers and it was the first time in eight decisions that Johnny Podres had lost in the Coliseum, which has been a nightmare for every left-hander in the league.

Philadelphia's amazing Phillies moved into third place by tumbling St. Louis, 13-3, to drop the Cardinals into a fourth-place tie with Chicago Cubs, another surprise pennant contender.

The Phillies broke the game open with five runs in the fourth inning, accomplished with only three hits. Outfielder Harry Anderson led the way in the assault on Sal Maglie and three succeeding pitchers by batting in five runs.

Chicago held off a desperate late-inning rally to beat Pittsburgh Pirates, 8-7, after taking an 8-2 lead into the ninth inning. Dick Stuart, recently recalled from Salt Lake City, where he had hit 31 home runs, climaxed the rally with a two-run homer as he made his first appearance in major league play.

A REAL JINX

Bob Purkey continued his mastery over San Francisco Giants by pitching Cincinnati Redlegs to a 4-0 win at San Francisco.

That made it 42 consecutive innings in which the Giants have failed to score off Purkey. He pitched two scoreless innings against them in 1956, added 22 more last season and blanked them on June 30 when he added them to his slight edge.

Results left six clubs within three and a half games of the lead, all playing 500 or better baseball, as the sizzling National League race got even tighter although the Braves did lack a game on their slight edge.

Rally Falls Short— Rocks Lose, 11-10

NEW WESTMINSTER — Victoria's desperate Shamrocks, fighting this year for a berth in the playoffs instead of the Inter-City Lacrosse League, rallied spiritedly here Thursday night but couldn't quite make it as they went down to the league-leading New Westminster Salmonbellies, 11-10.

It was the fifth successive win for the Salmonbellies, now seven points in front of the second-place Vancouver Pilseners. For the league and Canadian champions it was the fourth straight defeat in a five-game winless streak and it left them a single point ahead of last place Nanaimo.

Timbermen got a chance to move into third place tonight when they met the Pilseners at Nanaimo.

Aloud by 24 and 9-1 in the first quarter and 12 early in the second quarter, Shamrocks were passed late in the second quarter and never were able to get the lead again. Although they fought hard to twice get within a single goal.

Jack Blonda, Ivan Stewart and Rudy Resinger scored in the last half of the second quarter to give the home club a 7-4 lead at half-time, and two goals at the start of the third quarter put Rocks down, 7-4.

THREE GOALS DOWN

They rallied there, Lew Landess getting his second goal and Pee Wee Bradshaw scoring seconds after a penalty to Martin Crema, to bring the score to 6-7. But the Islanders lapsed again as Walt Harris and Don Sepka broke through to regain the three-goal lead.

Rocks were trailing, 8-11, and apparently out of it with less than four minutes left, when they started another rally which just missed.

Bonnie Jay broke in for a goal while his club played short-handed and then Bert Bertola, who again played a standout game, got his second goal. Stan Joseph stopped Bradshaw on the last play of the game with only three seconds left.

A crowd of about 2,000 saw a fiercely-played game in which Blonda talked himself into a match misconduct late in the fourth quarter.

Incensed when no penalty was called after he had been hit across the face by Tom Druce's stick—Blonda argued long enough to get a five-minute misconduct. Maddier, he increased that to a 10-minute misconduct. Then—thoroughly enraged—he used language which brought him a match misconduct and an automatic one-game suspension.

Jay and Jack Bagley each got five minutes for fighting in the wild last quarter.

Next game tonight: City All-Stars vs. U.S. Bonnington.

Pearce Electric chalked up its third straight victory in Victoria Senior Amateur Baseball League action last night by edging Eagles, 5-3, behind the brilliant relief pitching of George Holt.

Holt came on to relieve starter Cal Putnam with three runs in, two runners on base and none out in the third inning. He promptly retired the next three batters and blanked Eagles on four hits in the remaining six innings.

Dave Black, with three hits, including a double, and Ron Martin with a pair of singles paced Pearce Electric at the plate.

The league's All-Star club will open its four-game series against American naval teams tonight at Royal Athletic Park against the USS Bonnington.

Game time is 7:30 p.m.

George Brice, who has won four and lost three while leading the league with 64 strikeouts, or Steve Bishop, who has a 4-3 record and 46 strikeouts, will start for the All-Stars.

Gerry Parker, with a .368 average and Mike Hodge, with a .378 average, are the club's top hitters.

Cal Putnam, George Holt (3) and Pearce's Gary Laymore and Jim Boudreau, Jim Mould (4).

Jack Patrick, who coached the club last season and also handled the quarterbacking duties, will be returning as a non-playing coach. The club expects to bring in several "imports" after lining up all available city talent.

North Shore, Surrey and the Drakes will enter a playoff to decide the provincial representatives in the Western Canada final.

Little Boy, 6, Blinded, Grandad Pays $30,000

TORONTO (C.P.) — A six-year-old boy was blinded by a car when he was hit by a car while playing in the street. His grandfather has paid $30,000 for damages.

Richard Cherner of Glen Watford, near Cornwall, was the boy's grandfather. He said he did not know his grandchild had been blinded.

Mr. Justice J. L. McLennan of the Supreme Court of Ontario also ordered $333 paid to the boy's father, Maurice Cherner. Mr. Cherner said he was backing his car out of his driveway when the boy was hit. He said he did not know his grandchild had been blinded.

Some of the features in the first two months of 1958 in the Victoria area were up 2.25 per cent, the lowest since 1954, according to the R.C. Electric.

Leaders End Talks

Tito, Nasser Condemn Cold War Antagonisms

Joint Appeal Made For Summit Parley

PUTA, Yugoslavia (Reuters) — Presidents Tito of Yugoslavia and Nasser of the United Arab Republic Thursday night condemned the division of the world into two antagonistic blocs and appealed for a summit conference to establish peaceful co-existence.

In a statement to the press, the two leaders also recommended that the United Nations should be strengthened and a ban on the production of nuclear weapons.

Angry Red Peasants

Recital of U.S. Cities Saved Fliers' Lives

WIE SHAVEN, GORE, ILLINOIS (C.P.) — A group of American Red Peasants, angry at the U.S. government's policy of supporting the war in Korea, held a recital of U.S. cities that had been saved from nuclear attack by the Red Peasants' actions.

The recital was held in a hall in Chicago. It was attended by a large number of Red Peasants. They sang songs and recited poems about the cities that had been saved.

Garden Notes

No Post-Vacation Ruins

By M. V. CHESNITT, PRINCE GEORGE

Gardeners are certainly peculiar people. We work our fingers to the bone all through the spring months, digging, planting, watering, weeding, etc., to create a lovely garden. Then, during about July, when the flowers have can come back to find the garden at best green and dead, with a few straggly and overgrown weeds.

First, the lawn. A lot of folks give their grass a check-up, but the lawn is often neglected. It should be mowed, watered, and fertilized.

When you return from vacation, the first thing you should do is check the garden. Look for any plants that may have died or are in danger of dying. Water them and see if they can be saved.

It is a good idea to have a list of the plants in your garden. This will help you to remember which plants you need to water and which ones you need to check.

through deep watering. The apartment is a good place for a few plants, but it is not a good place for a garden.

If you don't have a garden, you can still have a green thumb. You can grow plants in pots and keep them on a balcony or in a room.

There are many ways to keep your garden in good shape. You can hire a gardener, or you can do it yourself. It all depends on your budget and your time.

The best way to keep your garden in good shape is to take care of it every day. This means watering, weeding, and checking the plants. If you do this, your garden will be in good shape when you return from vacation.

The Viewing World

By John Crosby

Good Old Days Gone?

On the last show before going on vacation, I saw a group of people who were talking about the "good old days." They were talking about the days when life was simpler, when there were no cars, no radios, no movies, and no television.

I thought about this for a long time. I thought about the days when I was a child, when life was indeed simpler. But I also thought about the days when I was a young man, when life was more complicated.

I think that the "good old days" are gone. They are gone because life is now so complicated. There are so many things to do, so many things to worry about, that we no longer have time to enjoy the simple things.

Hollywood Today

By Sheila Graham

Star Going into Descendant

HOLLYWOOD—NANA MUM has asked Jack Carson to take over the role of the star in the new film "The Hot Tin Roof." Carson is a well-known actor who has been in many films.

He has a long career in Hollywood and is known for his roles in many famous films. He is now being asked to take over a role that was originally played by another actor.

It is a common thing in Hollywood for actors to take over roles. This is often done when the original actor is unavailable or when the studio wants a different actor for the role.

Tommy Sands was supposed to play "Rigger" in the new film "The Hot Tin Roof." But he has been replaced by Jack Carson.

Str. Laurence Olivier was supposed to play the role of the star in the new film "The Hot Tin Roof." But he has been replaced by Jack Carson.

It is a common thing in Hollywood for actors to be replaced. This is often done when the original actor is unavailable or when the studio wants a different actor for the role.

Hedy Lamarr is in town. She is here for a short time and will be seen in many places.

She is a famous actress who has been in many films. She is now in town for a short time and will be seen in many places.

It is a common thing in Hollywood for actors to be in town for a short time. This is often done when the actor has a busy schedule and can only be in town for a few days.

Margaret Visit Luring Drove of Tourists

Tourists are flocking to Victoria by whatever means they can find for the visit of Princess Margaret, princess consort of Prince George, Duke of Kent, tomorrow.

The city is being flooded by tourists, he said yesterday. Forty companies still operating reported having to leave their offices on the docks at Port Angeles and the Inner Harbor here is packed with boats of people who have come under their own steam or sail, he noted. Black Ball and Washington State lines admitted their business was at the peak but said they were not putting on more boats.

Motel and hotel operators reported a heavily booked situation and said more requests for reservations for this weekend and next week had come in than for any other period of this spring and summer.

The Victoria and Island Tourist and Publicity Bureau is open to provide help and advice data now 9 a.m. including Sundays and holidays.

When it is closed a special office is open next to the Dominion Hotel on Yates street.

Its purpose is to continue the tourist bureau's work of helping visitors find places to stay. Through the Victoria convention committee a list of places has been drawn up of commercial establishments.

Island forecast:
sunny, cloudy, warm

'Let Water Rates Develop Park'

Reeves' Reaction

Plan Hit Hard

Reaction of Oak Bay and Esquimalt council to the suggestion of the Greater Victoria Water Board to develop the park by raising water rates was not favorable.

CITY MANAGER WYATT

Proposal Divides Council

By R. O. MARRION

A suggestion that the Greater Victoria water board should buy the city's Elk-Beaver Lakes property and undertake the park development there was put before city council yesterday by city manager C. C. Wyatt.

Mr. Wyatt estimated that if the purchase price were $250,000 over 10 years and $30,000 a year were spent on administration, development and maintenance, cost to the average residential consumer in Greater Victoria would be 13 cents a month.

REACTION DIVIDED
First city council reaction to Mr. Wyatt's suggestion was divided.

Mr. H. H. Mooney was for immediate approval in principle. Ald. Geoffrey Bigelow thought Mr. Wyatt's report was wonderful but said that Victoria would still be paying for development of outside parks.

Victoria should sell the property to Saanich and let Saanich develop it, he maintained.

IDEAL WAY
Ald. Hugh Ramsay said Mr. Wyatt's plan might be the ideal way of handling the park development but he asked for time to study the report.

Mr. Wyatt said the lakes and lands were an asset of such a character that they should not be the property of a particular municipality. He said that the water supply should be conserved for the future.

ALL BENEFIT
Victoria's investment in the property at 5 per cent compound interest amounted now to $343,113, he said, but the asking price "should undoubtedly hinge upon the use to which the property is put."

The inhabitants of Greater Victoria as a whole, he said, were the beneficiaries of the property.

It would seem, therefore, in equity, finance such a desirable project the required money should be obtained from all of the beneficiaries and by the least acrimonious method.

LET ALL PAY
This is considered an honest and most equitable method of transferring the property to the Greater Victoria Water District and that the charges for the purchase administration, development and maintenance be added to the cost of water and paid for through the medium of the consumers' water bills.

Mr. Wyatt's report indicated the cost of the park would not be reflected in the water bills of consumers beyond the boundaries of Victoria, Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt.

The water board, he noted, is composed of elected representatives from all Greater Victoria municipalities.

Swallows Take Over Porch; Family Uses Back Door

Family of George Chapman, 306 Chester, has been barred from use of the front door of their home since birds, believed to be house swallows, built nest and started raising brood on front veranda of their home.

Mr. and Mrs. Chapman and son Michael, eight, have been using back door to avoid disturbing the parent birds, who object strenuously to traffic via front door below the nest. Colonist photographer Jim Ryan braved adult birds' ire and mounted stepladder to catch close-up shot of wary young swallows.

For Sailors

Warmer Welcome Please

Invitations to visit by sailors and ships are being received by the city of Victoria.

More than 1,000 sailors and ships are in the city for the Victoria Regatta.

Victoria area citizens wishing to invite one or more of the visitors to dinner or a family outing are asked to phone 55521.

RCE Band Plays Tonight

Band of the Royal Canadian Engineers from Chilliwack will play at 8 p.m. tonight at Beacon Hill Park.

Two color movies, "Museum Train" and "Vacation in Japan" will be shown after the band concert, which is jointly put on by Victoria Film Council and Victoria Life Underwriters.

Navy League

Navy League of Canada will hold a tag day Saturday on the half of Rainbow Sea Cadets sponsored by the league.

Members of both junior and senior corps will be posted on downtown streets in the appeal for public support of the Sea Cadet program.

League spokesmen said about $500 a year was required to maintain the Rainbow barracks and funds were needed to carry on.

June Another Record Month

Final tabulations for last month show that June was the second successive record month in The Daily Colonist King Fisherman contest.

Entries received last month totaled 1,814 fish as compared to 1,309 weighed in during June of last year.

With May showing a record of 2,000 fish, June's total of 1,814 is a record for the month.

An increase is shown in four of the contest's five divisions with the big gain in the spring and coho salmon sections of the contest. The total number of spring salmon entered to the end of June was 1,549 and the coho entry was 614 as compared to 983 and 393, respectively, of last year.

There was a smaller increase in the trout section, from 128 to 198, and five type salmon have been weighed in already to none of the first two months of last year.

Base fishermen, however, haven't been as lucky or as numerous, or both, as they were last year during June. The May total was up to 247 from 227 but it fell in June from 196 to 93 for an over-all drop of 83 entries for the first two months.

With completion of June entries completed, contest winners for June will be announced on Sunday and it is hoped that winners of June hidden-weight prizes will also be known by Sunday.

'Mystic' Boxer Barred

LONDON (AP)—Cleveland Williams, a heavyweight from Houston, Tex., who claims to receive mystic messages from above, was barred from British boxing rings Thursday.

The British Boxing Board of Control said it had no sympathy with Williams' claim to have received a spiritual message instructing him not to go through with a July 2 fight against Dick Richardson of Wales.

Teddy Waltham, secretary of the British board, said "a promoter who has sold nearly 12,000 tickets cannot be subject to the whim of a boxer."

The Amharas, largest race in Ethiopia, were converted to Christianity in the fourth cen-

TO THOSE WHO NEED MONEY
...for a useful purpose

There is a time to BORROW and a time to SAVE

And for many a B of M depositor they are one and the same.

If you need cash for some useful purpose, it may be good business for you to borrow rather than draw out your savings.

By borrowing for some useful purpose, and by making regular repayments on your loan, you are in reality — saving for a useful purpose. Meanwhile, you are keeping your savings programme intact.

This is wise spending, wise borrowing and wise saving.

DO YOU NEED MONEY? If you are in a position to repay without hardship, we are in a position
